Pennsylvania Historical & Museum Commission

The Pennsylvania Historical & Museum Commission (PHMC) is the official history agency of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Created in 1945, PHMC is responsible for the collection, conservation and interpretation of Pennsylvania's heritage, which we accomplish through the Pennsylvania State Archives, the State Museum of Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania State Historic Preservation Office, the Bureau of Management Services, and 26 historical sites and museums.

The responsibilities of PHMC, which are based in the Pennsylvania Constitution, are further defined in the History Code and the Administrative Code.

Our Mission

As the state's history agency, it is our mission to discover, protect and share Pennsylvania's past, inspiring others to value and use our history in meaningful ways.

Our Vision

Pennsylvanians see history as relevant to their lives.

FROM THE CHAIR

What a year!

We've learned an important lesson: It's impossible to go through a pandemic without seeing the relevance of history. During COVID-19, we've needed to understand where these terrible viruses came from and how people in the past coped with them. We've yearned to reach back in time for clues to solving the crisis today. That's why there's been so much media coverage on the influenza epidemic of 1918 and the yellow fever epidemics of the 1700s.

With the relevance of that history in mind, the Pennsylvania Historical & Museum Commission adopted a new strategic plan. We believe this plan brings what we all know – the critical context that history alone provides – front and center. As you will see in the pages that follow, that overarching goal is already showing up in exhibits and programs.

Perhaps you experienced the relevant virtual programming of the Pennsylvania State Archives, The State Museum of Pennsylvania and the agency's historic sites during the pandemic. I'm sure you will find more in the years ahead. Your Commission is committed to delivering an ever-expanding web of programs, exhibits, experiences and events that everyone can connect to, learn from and enjoy.

Yours in history,
Nancy Moses
Chair

FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

This year, PHMC adopted a new strategic plan around the vision of a Pennsylvania in which all residents find history to be relevant to their lives.

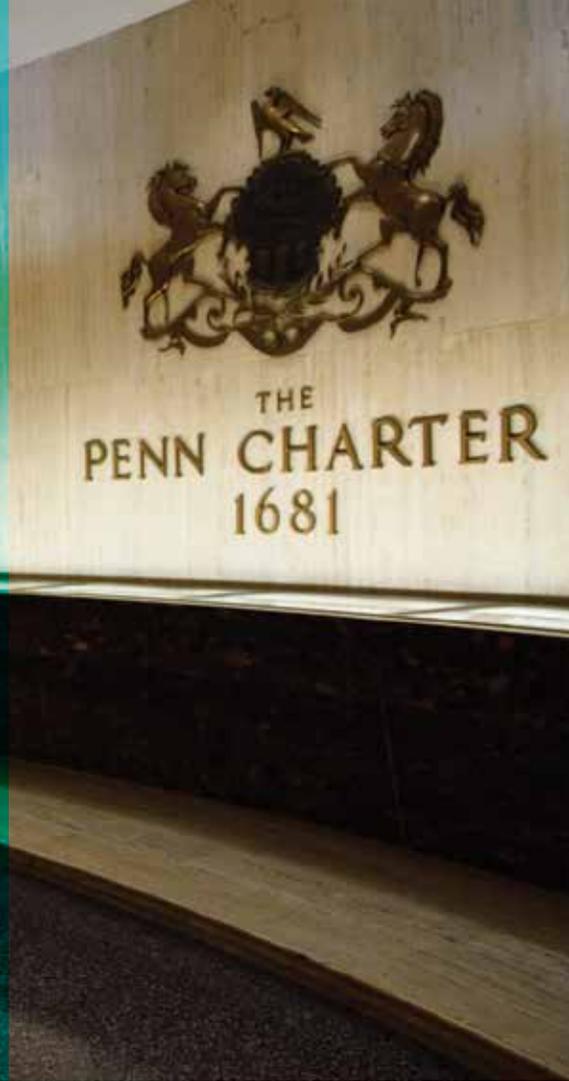

In recent years, we have seen that Pennsylvanians—and Americans as a whole—have passion for their history. It is a complex and rich fabric, woven by many voices and experiences. History can help us understand the world we live in, the forces that have shaped our own lives, and the viewpoints of others.

We at PHMC are progressing toward our vision in all aspects of our agency's work, organizing it around the following priorities:

- We see our purpose in discovering and sharing a history that is meaningful and inclusive, reflecting the history of all Pennsylvanians, and ensuring that the history we preserve is accessible to all.
- We recognize that we cannot do this work alone, so we collaborate with a diversity of partners to preserve, share and promote history.
- We keep service to Pennsylvanians at the center of all we do.
- We view the history business as the “forever business,” and our operations must be sustainable to ensure that we can steward this history not only for current Pennsylvanians but also for future generations.

This annual report highlights some of the efforts we have initiated to bring us closer to our vision of a Pennsylvania in which residents can find relevance, usefulness and meaning in our shared history.

Pennsylvania State Archives

The Pennsylvania State Archives (PSA) protects more than 250 million significant historic, legal and financial documents for use by state agencies and the public. These documents range from William Penn's Charter of 1681 to the digital media of recent governors and vital records such as historic birth and death certificates. PSA makes these documents available to the public—researchers, genealogists, scholars—both in person and online. PSA also operates the State Records Center, a cost-effective storage facility for the records of state agencies, and it trains state agencies and local governments to safeguard and manage records.

New Virtual Program Offers Advice to Diverse Communities on Preserving Their Histories

What documents should a community save to preserve its history for future generations? How does a community safeguard these materials? In September 2020, PSA launched the virtual program series Community History Dialog to bring together community members, particularly from historically under-documented groups, and assist them in finding answers to these questions. The series features speakers who share their own experiences and then offer advice to participants on collecting and preserving their own community's history. Among the programs in 2020–21 were Ophelia Chambliss, artist and PHMC commissioner, “Capturing Black History Through the Lens of Black Art”; Barry Loveland, chair of the LGBT Center of Central PA History Project, “Organizing a Community to Preserve Its History”; and Samip Mallick, executive director of the South Asian American Digital Archive, “Preserving Stories Digitally.” More than 60 percent of the participants reported that they have taken action to better preserve or share their community's history as a result of their involvement in the dialogs.

Online Accessibility to PSA Collections Increases with Digitization Projects

PSA's ongoing effort to digitize its collections and make them freely accessible online continued during 2020–21, hitting a milestone with more than 19 million of its records now available through PSA's website and those of its partners, Ancestry and Power Library. Even as staff continued to work remotely because of the pandemic, they have to date digitized and uploaded nearly 3,200 microfilm rolls, which comprise more than 2.1 million images. Uploading of PSA's digitized historic postcards, dating from the 1880s to the 1940s, reached more than 12,600, representing 49 of the commonwealth's 67 counties. Although PSA was unable to welcome on-site visitors during the pandemic in the past fiscal year, it received more than 4.1 million unique visitors to its online collections and filled hundreds of research requests.

New ARCH System Improves Finding Aids for PSA Patrons

To increase the public's access to archival records in its vast collection, PSA migrated to the Eloquent Archives software system during this fiscal year. The resulting online catalog, named PA ARCH (Archives Research Central Hub), provides a user-friendly gateway for patrons to access information on PSA's holdings. Each individual collection, group, series and item was reviewed for accuracy and completeness. Staff members have gone through several rounds of training and are refining topical access points and cleaning up the formatting of certain data to allow greater patron interaction. The system will soon allow users to create personal records lists and to request records in advance of a visit to PSA.

State Records Center Continues Essential Service to Commonwealth Through Pandemic

During the pandemic, the State Records Center staff continued to provide commonwealth agencies with records necessary to fulfilling their essential functions. Agencies such as the Department of Corrections and the Department of Health rely on the State Records Center to retrieve important inmate records or vital birth and death certificates. Due to the need for access to critical records stored at the center, employees were considered essential and worked onsite to fulfill requests. Although the State Records Center continues to receive physical documents, commonwealth agencies have continued their trend of limiting their dependence on paper, reducing the number of physical records stored at the center.

New State Archives Building Continues Toward Completion

In an effort to improve its stewardship of the valuable documents and records of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, PSA will be relocating from its current home on North Front Street to a new state-of-the-art facility at 1681 North Sixth Street. Construction of the building began in June 2020 and is scheduled for completion in 2022. The project to prepare the physical collection for transfer had been delayed by the pandemic but resumed toward the end of the fiscal year. Staff has begun the final tasks of reorganizing, refolding, barcoding and entering into the online finding-aid system the last large group of records to be prepared for the move.

The State Museum of Pennsylvania

The State Museum of Pennsylvania is responsible for maintaining a collection of more than 9 million artifacts that tell the stories of Pennsylvania’s natural and cultural history. These are the largest collections in the commonwealth focused exclusively on the heritage of Pennsylvania, covering the fields of art, history, archaeology, geology, paleontology and natural history. Listed in the National Register of Historic Places, The State Museum building boasts nearly 160,000 square feet of exhibit space filled with both permanent and changing exhibits. In a typical year, 40,000 school students visit the museum, with another 60,000 adult and group visitors participating in the museum’s educational and facility use programs.

State Museum Facility Reopens, Offers Both In-Person and Online Programming

After a year of closure due to the COVID-19 pandemic, The State Museum opened its doors again to visitors on April 30, 2021. During the pandemic, several regular State Museum programs and exhibits were migrated online to continue reaching audiences and connecting them to Pennsylvania's history and natural history. As the museum moves forward, it is transitioning to a more hybridized experience, offering many programs and exhibits both in-person and virtually. One weekly series, Learn at Lunchtime, featuring State Museum staff speaking on a variety of topics for all ages, now presents live programs both in the museum and via Zoom. One of the museum's most popular permanent exhibits, Mammal Hall, with 13 dioramas depicting common and rare species in their natural habitats, is now available online as a 360 virtual tour.

Art of the State Continues Through Pandemic with Virtual Tour and Ceremony

Since 1968 the State Museum has been the venue for Art of the State, an annual juried exhibition in which artists share their ideas and engage viewers through a diverse body of artwork. When the State Museum facility was closed during the first year of the COVID-19 pandemic, many of the museum programs and exhibits were presented online, including Art of the State. This year, 108 works were selected from 1,901 entries in five categories: painting, photography, sculpture, craft and work on paper. A 360 virtual tour of the 53rd exhibition was made available on The State Museum's website. Prizes were awarded at a virtual ceremony broadcast via social media on September 13, 2020.

Painting from State Museum Collection Featured in Overseas Exhibition

On June 25, 2021, a retrospective exhibition, The Artist. Anna Bilińska 1854–1893, opened in Poland at the National Museum in Warsaw (NMW). One of the paintings in the exhibition, an 1890 oil-on-canvas portrait of sculptor George Grey Barnard, was loaned to NMW by The State Museum, reflecting the widespread reach of PHMC’s online collections catalog. A Polish artist, Bilińska was noted for her portraiture. Barnard was a Pennsylvania native who created the statues at the entrance to the Pennsylvania State Capitol in 1902. The State Museum worked with fine arts conservators, international packers and shippers, and insurance agents to send the 10-by-7-foot work across the Atlantic safely for the exhibition.

State Museum Project to Head-Start Turtle Eggs Provides Awareness of Environmental Issues

Since 2016 the Zoology and Botany section of The State Museum has been working annually with Dickinson College on a project that involves head-starting turtle eggs to bring a healthy balance to the habitat at Wildwood Park, a public nature sanctuary in Harrisburg. As an alternative means of presenting family programs during the pandemic, State Museum members were invited to nature walks at Wildwood Park with zoology and botany curator Walter Meshaka as he and Dickinson students collected data and demonstrated the significance of the nesting project.

State Museum Develops a Comprehensive Plan for the Future

Over the past year, The State Museum has been working on a master-planning effort to evaluate how it serves the public and tells Pennsylvania’s history through the objects in its collections. The goal of the plan is to promote a broader understanding of Pennsylvania history in a vibrant, inclusive and accessible environment. All aspects of the museum were examined, from visitor amenities and experiences to the stories that are told and the representation of diverse voices in its exhibits and programs. Stakeholder listening sessions were held across the state with classroom teachers, community leaders, and numerous museums and historical organizations from throughout the commonwealth to understand the needs and desires of the museum’s many audiences. Highlights of the plan include a gathering space and outdoor terrace on the fifth floor and a revived welcoming and inclusive free admission space on the ground floor entrance.

Bureau of Historic Sites & Museums

The Bureau of Historic Sites & Museums (BHSM) preserves and interprets 26 historic sites and museums across the commonwealth that together tell the story of Pennsylvania. Known as the Pennsylvania Trails of History, these sites include battlefields, historic houses and religious settlements, as well as theme museums focused on Pennsylvania's nationally significant role in key industries including lumber, coal, agriculture and railroads. Although rooted in history, these museums interpret themes in relevant and contemporary ways, hosting citizenship ceremonies, highlighting the state's traditions of immigration and tolerance, and celebrating the state's social, cultural and economic diversity.

Sites and Museums Improve Accessibility for Marginalized Groups

BHSM made strides this year in its ongoing efforts to increase accessibility to its sites. As part of a capital project, Old Economy Village installed access ramps and a lift for visitors who use wheelchairs or mobility aids; Daniel Boone Homestead and Historic Pithole, a division of Drake Well Museum & Park, made access improvements to their visitor centers; and many sites have increased the use of captioning for virtual programs, both live and recorded. Accessibility Excellence—a project in partnership with PA Museums and the Centers for Independent Living of Central PA (CIL) to design a methodology and toolkit to improve accessibility for all communities at Pennsylvania Trails of History sites—continued with CIL staff and consumers visiting sites to test the self-assessment tool and provide feedback.

BHSM Historic Objects Shared with Wider Audience Through Virtual Programs and Database

During closure of Trails of History facilities due to the pandemic, the sites turned their attention and energies to reaching audiences through virtual programming, with a special emphasis on their collections, via Zoom and other platforms, as well as continuing to bring visibility to collections through PHMC's online museum collections website. In 2020–21 museum curators added records—including images, context and interpretation—for 8,900 objects on the database. A collaborative online program, PHMC Virtual Collections Showcase, premiered in December 2020 and has continued monthly, with staff from the sites presenting objects around a common theme, such as food, weather, or sports. Each show features a wide range of stories, highlighting the breadth and depth of PHMC's collections and the expertise of its staff. Many individual sites have also showcased their holdings in shorter videos on social media and YouTube. Although a phased reopening of the sites began in spring 2021, many of these virtual programs are scheduled to continue because of their ability to reach a wider audience.

Sites Collaborate with External Partners and Each Other for Virtual Programming

Throughout the pandemic, PHMC sites collaborated among themselves and with outside partners to bring Pennsylvania history to a broader audience through virtual programming. With Reel History: Pennsylvania Industrial History at the Movies, Trails of History industrial museums posted announcements on social media inviting followers to watch the movie The Molly Maguires (filmed at PHMC's Eckley Miners' Village in 1970) on their own and then join their staff representatives on Zoom to critique the film. In another Zoom event, Revolution! How Black Gold Transformed the Military, Drake Well Museum & Park, Erie Maritime Museum and the Pennsylvania Military Museum teamed up to discuss how oil revolutionized military operations from the industry's birth to the present day. In virtual collaborations with external partners, Old Economy Village joined with two outside sites, New Harmony and Historic Harmony, which also interpret the 19th-century communal Harmony Society, for The Harmonist Connection series on YouTube. Erie Maritime Museum collaborated with other maritime museums on the series Boats, Ships and Us.

Initiative to Make Sites Relevant and Accessible, with Workshops, Online Sessions

The goals of BHSM's 21st-Century Museums initiative are to make historic sites and museums more relevant to their local and regional communities, reach and serve new audiences, and allow historic sites and museums to share Pennsylvania's diverse history in all its complexity. Workshops for staff to improve services for all Pennsylvanians and establish best practices for building community partnerships were held in 2020–21. The 21st Century Museums Conversations series, a monthly Zoom discussion on diverse topics, making Pennsylvania history accessible, premiered this year. Several sessions focused on reinterpreting existing collections to tell broader stories and the challenges of changing interpretation. Other sessions have focused on cultural identity and language, intersectionality, and disability. The series has featured collaborations with the Governor's Advisory Commission on African American Affairs, the Governor's Advisory Commission on Asian Pacific American Affairs, the Pennsylvania Commission for Women, Frick Pittsburgh, PA Museums, and the Delaware Tribe Historic Preservation Office.

Informative Videos for PHMC Sites and Museums Produced Through PA History to Go Project

PA History to Go, a video project funded in fall 2020 by the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS) through the Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security (CARES) Act, began production this year. Each of the 22 participating Pennsylvania Trails of History sites will work with Mark Polonia Productions to create a 12-minute video, or shorter segments totaling 12 minutes, providing a brief historical overview and virtual tour of the site. Grants support the purchase of basic video equipment for each site and the establishment of four hubs with editing equipment to be used as needed. Polonia will provide training for staff on the use of editing software. With the initial videos and equipment, sites will be able to produce additional materials tailored to specific audiences and needs. In addition to a staff steering committee, the project has an external advisory panel that is providing feedback on the videos and suggestions for tailoring them. As of the end of June 2021, on-site filming and rough cuts of half a dozen videos had been produced, with an intensive filming schedule slated for summer and fall. The project is scheduled to be completed in summer 2022.

State Historic Preservation Office

The Pennsylvania State Historic Preservation Office (PA SHPO) supports efforts across the commonwealth to incorporate historic places in the planning and development of vibrant, sustainable, forward-looking communities. PA SHPO's initiatives include supervision of planning and construction grants for the continued use of historic buildings, management of state and federal tax credit programs for the rehabilitation of historic properties, maintenance of a publicly searchable database of historic and archaeological resources, operation of survey programs for historic and archaeological sites, and administration of the National Register of Historic Places, Certified Local Government and Pennsylvania Historical Marker programs. Under the National Historic Preservation Act and the Pennsylvania History Code, PA SHPO partners with state agencies, developers, local governments and citizens to review thousands of state and federal projects annually, ensuring that significant historic and archaeological resources are incorporated within project planning.

New Online System Provides Access to PA SHPO's Historic Preservation Resources

Since its creation more than 50 years ago, PA SHPO has guided thousands of Pennsylvanians, municipalities and partners through state and federal historic preservation programs. In the process, a large and varied number of records has been produced. Until recently, only a fraction of this information was available online. In February 2021 PA SHPO launched PA-SHARE (Pennsylvania's State Historic and Archaeological Resource Exchange), which integrates disparate records and processes into one state-of-the-art program. With more than 1 million scanned pages of information, PA-SHARE makes PA SHPO's cultural resources data accessible online. PA-SHARE combines the geographic information system (GIS) platform and custom-built project management software to make it easier and faster for users to find information about historic places and archaeological sites, to process project submissions, and to utilize state and federal historic preservation programs. Interactive mapping allows users to pinpoint a specific place, define a project area, or draw boundaries. For most of the programs PA SHPO administers, PA-SHARE streamlines the application and review processes with online forms, real-time updates, and project tracking.

PA SHPO Supports Preservation of Historic African American Churches and Cemeteries

In 2017 the National Park Service awarded a $30,000 Underrepresented Community Grant to PA SHPO to study African American churches and cemeteries in Pennsylvania. This program supports the survey, inventory and designation of historic properties that are associated with communities currently underrepresented in the National Register of Historic Places and among National Historic Landmarks. PA SHPO authored a Multiple Property Documentation Form, also known as a historic context, to assist people interested in documenting, evaluating and nominating properties associated with the Black church experience and all types of African American cemeteries between c. 1644 and c. 1970. It supports the evaluation of African American churches and cemeteries for National Register eligibility, whether for a nomination, qualifying for grant funds, or state or federal compliance review. This context can also be helpful for other activities that seek to identify and celebrate African American history through social programs, local history events, historical markers, or heritage tourism.

Baseline Survey Initiated to Identify PA's Historic Resources for Preservation Planning

In 2020-21 PA SHPO began a three-year effort to collect baseline survey information about thousands of older and historic places across Pennsylvania. Survey is the process of identifying and gathering data about a community's historic resources through public engagement, planning, background research and field work. It is fundamental to historic preservation because it acknowledges that these places add value to Pennsylvania's communities and help tell its many stories. This type of survey effort, which has not been undertaken in four decades, is one of the many ways in which PA SHPO is implementing its goal to address the need for survey as a basic building block of preservation planning. The identification of resources is key to effectively plan for mitigation and preservation efforts and effects on historic properties. The survey facilitates cooperation among local, state and federal government agencies in both preservation and community development activities.

Historical Markers Commemorate Pennsylvania History for More Than a Century

Pennsylvania Historical Markers commemorate the people, places, events and innovations that have affected the lives of Pennsylvanians over the centuries since William Penn founded the commonwealth. Administered by PA SHPO, the program is 107 years old, and to date more than 2,500 markers have been installed throughout the state. Any Pennsylvania resident can nominate a subject for a new marker. Nominations are then evaluated by a panel of independent experts from across the state and approved by the agency's commissioners. Markers installed and dedicated in 2020-21 include the archaeological site of a Susquehannock village in Lemoyne; First Troop Philadelphia City Cavalry, a militia founded in 1774 that has served in every major U.S. conflict; and Nile Swim Club of Yeadon, the first private swim club owned and operated by African Americans. Also this year, 23 new subjects were approved for markers (see page 22).

Community Initiative Awards Recognize Digital Engagement for Preservation Success

PA SHPO's annual Community Initiative Awards recognize organizations, municipalities, agencies and individuals whose work embodies the spirit of #PreservationHappensHere and who have achieved preservation successes. The recipients of the 2020 awards were Erin Phillips, whose Old Erie on Foot blog and Instagram account promote preservation of Erie County's unique communities through high-quality photographs, bits of local history, and personal insights; Mainstreet Waynesboro Inc., a group established to revitalize the Waynesboro Historic District, recently listed in the National Register of Historic Places; and the Society to Preserve the Millvale Murals of Maxo Vanka, a nonprofit dedicated to the conservation and protection of the nationally recognized murals by Maxo Vanka in Millvale's St. Nicholas Croation Church. The three recipients were honored for demonstrating the power of digital engagement and the importance of 21st-century tools and technology to advocate, promote and preserve Pennsylvania's older and historic places, which has been especially important during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Bureau of Management Services

The Bureau of Management Services supports the overall operation of PHMC through its divisions of Architecture & Preservation, Marketing & Media, and Fiscal & Office Support Services.

The Division of Architecture & Preservation (DAP) manages facility planning, architectural and engineering design, and construction projects for all PHMC facilities. Capital projects in the last year included ongoing construction of the new Pennsylvania State Archives building, substantial completion of a large sitewide restoration and accessibility project at Old Economy Village, significant HVAC upgrades at Pennsbury Manor, and site infrastructure improvements at Daniel Boone Homestead. DAP also managed approximately $4 million in Keystone Recreation, Park & Conservation Fund-supported projects at PHMC historic sites and museums in 2020-21.

The Division of Marketing & Media supports the agency through media relations, graphic design, photography, web administration, social media, and the publication of PHMC's quarterly history magazine, Pennsylvania Heritage. Through social media this year, PHMC programs reached 84,279 followers on Facebook and 6,291 on Twitter. Pennsylvania Heritage—now in its 47th year in print—featured stories on Tom Ridge and the impact of 9/11, archaeology at the free Black community of Pandenarium, and Muhammad Ali at Fighter's Heaven, among others. The Pennsylvania Heritage website, launched last year, received 144,116 views and 83,288 visitors in 2020–21.

The Division of Fiscal & Office Support Services provides budget, purchasing, human resources, and other management services for PHMC.

The Pennsylvania Heritage Foundation

The Pennsylvania Heritage Foundation (PHF) is the nonprofit partner of the Pennsylvania Historical & Museum Commission. Governed by a volunteer board, PHF helps preserve the commonwealth's rich heritage through charitable funding, membership, grant management and community engagement.

PHF Partners with Daniel Boone Homestead

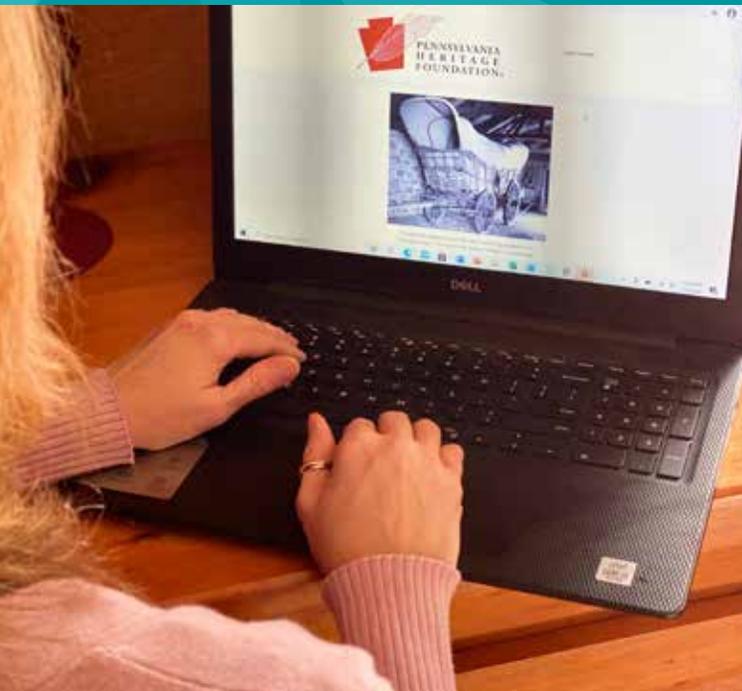

Last year PHF began a partnership with PHMC to assist in the operation of the Daniel Boone Homestead, one of PHMC's Trails of History sites, in Birdsboro, Berks County. A site manager was hired to coordinate site activities with planned construction, serve as an onsite liaison for the Master Plan process, assist in the transition to a new management and operations structure, and coordinate site operations.

PHF Provides Easy Access to PHMC's Online Programs

As PHMC has increased its online offerings in the past year during the pandemic, PHF has developed two additional means of access: a resources navigation tab on its website, which provides a one-stop location for links to Trails of History websites, databases, social media, blogs, virtual programming and schedules for in-person events; and, for members, a biweekly e-digest, which brings together links for specific stories about Keystone State history, famous Pennsylvanians, historic destinations, and archaeological excavations.

PHF Supports Work on PA History to Go Video Project

Work began this year on the PA History to Go video project, funded by the Institute of Museum and Library Services through the CARES Act. Working with Mark Polonia Productions through an agreement between the Pennsylvania Heritage Foundation and PHMC, Pennsylvania Trails of History sites will produce video tours that can be tailored for use with a wide variety of audiences.
